

Resisting Fleshly Desires (Situations)

1. A boy suddenly walks up to you while standing in the hallway at school. He curses you and pokes fun at you by making weird gestures with his hands. You respond by punching him on the arm.

2. You are standing in line to enter a movie theater when a person budes in line right in front of you. You're not happy but you don't show anger. Instead, you immediately pray for that person.

3. You are having fun at the playground when a well-known bully approaches you and stares you in the face. He shouts some mean words, and then slaps you on the cheek. Instead of running away or slapping him back, you point to your other cheek.

4. You are waiting for the bus to go home from school. It is sort of chilly, so you are glad you brought a coat. Suddenly, someone about your size comes and takes your coat before you can put it on. Immediately, you chase the perpetrator down and snatch back your coat.

5. A friend comes over to play, and you are both in your room. Your friend notices that you have a brand new softball glove, and asks if he can borrow your old one. You look for you old glove and find it under the bed. You give it to your friend and tell him that he can keep it.
